Shanghai was a fishing village hundreds of years ago. Most of the people made their living on fishing and farming. People did their housing, clothing on their own. The day will start with an excursion to the water town 45 minutes away from downtown of Shanghai, with a history of thousand years. The living style in the water town still remains the traditional way.

- Boat ride: Small gondolas can be seen everywhere in the town, and are a nice way to get a view of the town from the water. We will take the ride (6 pax per boat) sailing on the canal connecting the village and local town.
- Setting-fish-free: Fangsheng Bridge (Setting-fish-free Bridge) is the longest, largest and tallest stone bridge, with five openings both in Shanghai region. This bridge was built in 1571. On the bridge stands a stone tablet named Dragon Gate Stone, which is engraved with 8 coiling dragons encircling a shining pearl. On top of the bridge are 4 lifelike stone lions. After boat-ride, guests will have opportunity to set cute fish free to water.
- Rice dumpling wrapping demonstration: Over there, the guests can make their own rice dumpling (Zongzi) wrapping session in the traditional Old Street.
- Free time at North Street: The one-kilometer long North Street is the best preserved ancient street in the town. Nowadays, it is the commercial and shopping street full of local handcrafts, souvenirs and local snacks. Strolling on this ancient thoroughfare and appreciating the historic buildings, long-established stores, and old bridges as well as the many narrow lanes is a great enjoyment.
